

Things that should be learned in the Fashion Design Schools

Technology has influence any aspect in our life. Fashion is not excluded. The creativity and artistry in the fashion design is now combined with the technology to create better fashion and design quality. However, there is also a worry in the fashion and design related to the direction of the discipline. It is not only about the challenges of the quality and the relevance as fashion and design but also the conflict and uncommon standard across the multiple patterns.

In the beginning of 2007, we found the latest bleeding chic that is wrapped in a freshness that showed the interpretation and appreciation for Pythagorean precision. The fashion design institution all over the world seems to study and spread the pretty runway bundles, prepackaged and readymade fashion. However, this condition received some critics from academic writers who claimed that it is an unimportant effect. They've seen the changes in the fashion world such as the T-shirt canvas, eco-friendly design that combined the fashion and activism into deconstructionists' aesthetic. The interesting thing to be noted down is the diffusion of fashion trends and the extension beyond geographical boundaries. We can see the current fashion such as sport wear with high heeled sneakers, hoodies and track pants, and many more. However, the most important thing in fashion design is that it makes the world closely related. It is also effective in promoting various cultures. Although the handmade fashion products are still worshipped by the customers, but the technologically fashion products have become serious competitors in the industry.